sou'wester staff

foreword

the 1966 sou'wester is before you now for your pleasure, appraisal and recollections.

1965-1966 has been a year of note at su, made up of ends and beginnings. mood hall yielded its right to house men students and the basketball team ended its record-breaking losing streak. but new buildings and new coke machines bloomed all over campus and su funds advanced. the adoption of the new calendar enlivened student academic interest and encouraged more to make su their home for the entire four years. through our media, photography and copy, we have tried to present all this, and even more.

the annual was not produced without problems this year; we began full-staffed and enthusiastic but soon found ourselves lacking a source of photography. however, through the meeting of many minds and much persuasive speaking, by mid-term we added to our staff competent and easy-going john fields, commercial photographer.

the book will not go to print without appreciation expressed to several people: mr. true (our guardian angel), mr. hobbs and mr. wink (our advisors), dr. mc cook (our friend), sheila, gayle, chrissie, judy, mac and the other staff members.

the annual is a scrapbook, a composite of the lives of each of us. the staff has tried to relate the story of the year 1965-1966 so that it will say something special to each of you. we do not claim that our narrative is complete; its completion will be when you read through it and add to our tale your own unique memories.

september meant
 packing up books, clothes, chairs, tables, radios,
 record players, pictures,
 posters, souvenirs,
 party favors, and other necessary items at home and transporting them
 to the campus.
 once here,
 upperclassmen spent hours
 in the sub
 seeing everyone again,
 catching up on summertalk, and scoping the new freshmen.
 freshmen wandered around in little groups
 learning names,
 renewing acquaintances from church camp,
 and standing in line for mail boxes.
 more than ever tried to see their academic counselors before registration.

registration was juggling hours, avoiding p.t., signing up for five "staff" courses, substituting courses,
 standing in line for dr. campbell, standing in the wrong line.
 the freshmen's first encounter with the faculty and upperclassmen
 was in the orientation groups where they attempted to confront and hash out the ideas in the books
 they had read during the summer.

upperclassmen who returned in the fall found the campus had evolved
to a state
of pits and trenches
and workmen
and coke machines that shined all night.

we eagerly dreamed
of the new commons with its windows and fresh air, and especially
a menu with a multiplicity of offerings;
quality instead of quantity, we were assured.
boys dormitories,
apartment style,
with most conveniences,
slowly promised to replace mood.

hurry, confusion;
choosing, hoping, smiling, eating, waiting—
that was rush, as usual.
"silence" ruled the campus as jaws ached from smiling and
emotions were drained
by the tension.

but at last,
 saturday noon, september 18, arrived and
 those who received bids ran to appointed spots all over campus to be greeted with
 handshakes, hugs,
 laughs, screams, or shouts by very happy, very tired initiates.
 then came greek weekend and the men went to the sub to meet the girls,
 and the girls went to the houses
 to meet the men.

the all-school dance,
"gangplank gambol",
was the first opportunity for the whole campus to mix
"off-silence".
dean allen and jack
highlighted the evening's entertainment.

ka derby day gave all
sorority pledge classes a chance to sit on balloons,
throw rolling pins,
wheelbarrow race,
tow sack race,
pitch eggs and
tug o' war.
rick williams presented the first place trophy to diane greer, president of the winning adpi team.

adjustment
 is a portion of all college life at su it involves getting used to
 commons food
 classes
 the rain
 professors
 study schedules
 budgeting time
 the library
 a roommate
 7 o'clock breakfast
 dorm hours
 quiet hours
 prejudices
 chapel prayers
 georgetown . .

su was hardly all academic-centered this year; at least for the upperclassmen it wasn't.
 there were parties nearly every weekend
 and during the day
 there was always someone to talk to
 in the sub.
 release and
 relaxation
 never have been scarcities
 on our campus.

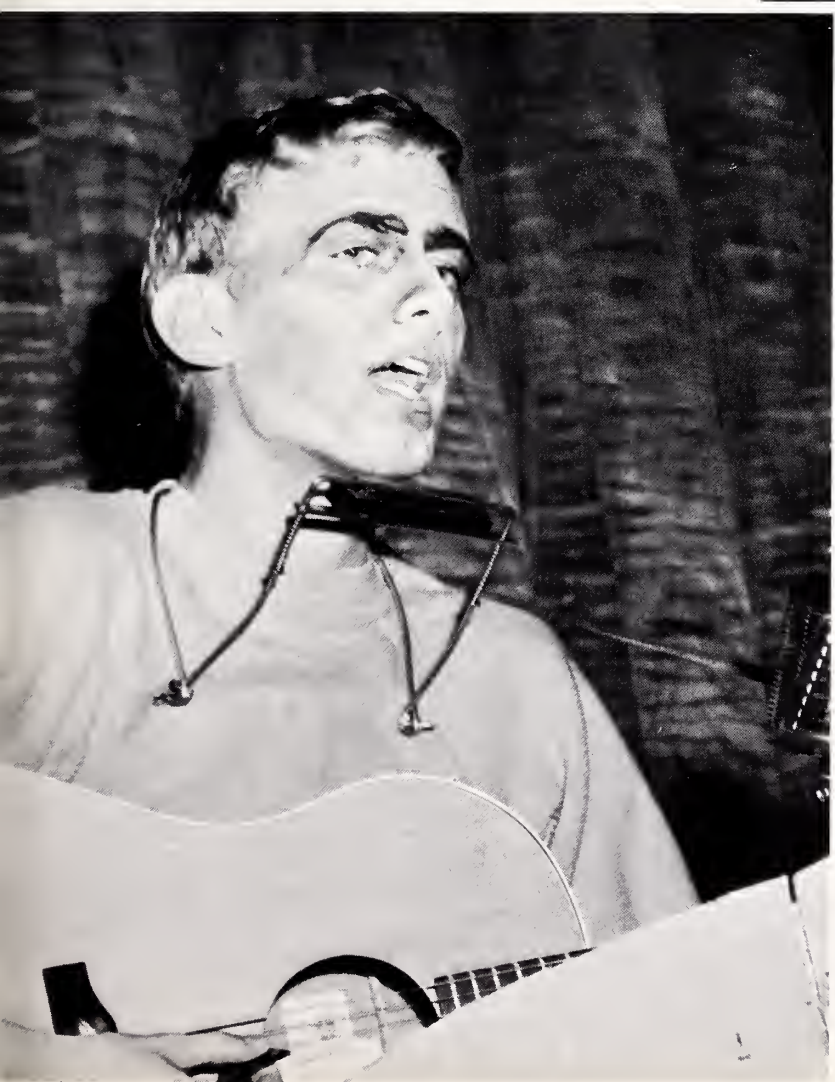

meanwhile,
on the northwest corner of the campus,
a large percentage of the university's men were making the most of their educational experience.

its success last year
 inspired the sub to sponsor a carnival
 again this year;
 social groups contributed booths for amusements.
 favorite activities were throwing water balloons
 at professors,
 being wed in the
 marriage morgue,
 and dunking tri-delts.

the annual
 miss witch and mr. goblin contest was held with a gory array of contestants and talents.
 in the end
 sheila ramsey and
 hank smith
 snared the titles.

a number of special events were hosted on the campus this year:

here from southwestern medical school,

dr. arthur grollman talked with pre-med students; winston bode autographed copies of his book, portrait of pancho, a biography of su alum j. frank dobie;

dr. hester conversed with mr. john d. wheeler who was honored at a dinner for his outstanding service as chairman of our board of trustees;

john tower, along with the trustees, administration, faculty and students, paid tribute to dr. george hester for his 40 years at su; sterling wheeler started the year off with a lecture series on freedom and the kind of church everyone needs.

when basketball season
rolled around,
an all-out campaign
was made by the spirit committee,
cheerleaders and coach merritt to boost spirit
and attendance
at the games.
the pirates,
who turned out a
fighting season against some strong teams (including the university of houston),
well-deserved
the increased
student spirit
and admiration
for their efforts.

christmastime arrived
again this year in a series of
su traditions:
the band concert and
tree trim,
the sub and commons
christmas dinners,
exams in every subject,
fraternity parties,
sorority caroling,
the choirs' presentation of
handel's messiah, the final sing song in the courtyard of mood hall, the candlelight service in the chapel.

southwestern
would not be itself
without a pack of dogs
romping
around the campus;
to most of us
they make it a little more like home;
they attend chapel
better than we do.
two of the dogs in particular found their ways
into our hearts and
our dorm rooms;
knurd, the sandy-colored mutt
and sam, the woeful-eyed basset and protege
of the ka house.

bam! whop! zowie! bang!
 it wasn't batman
 that hit us in january (he was in february);
 it was finals.
 after all the frolicking
 and merrymaking at christmastime
 and new year's each individual
 was struck differently
 by the dark evils.
 next year will be
 a new story.

the sub,
 more vital than ever
 this year,
 met student interest in
 numerous ways;
 among them:
 jules feiffer,
 contemporary humorist,
 offered his views on american history and society in general;
 lu mitchell, dallas folksinger, captivated and charmed
 everyone—
 her sincerity, understanding,
 and wit were refreshing;
 the forum committee
 sponsored a model un, the first of its kind on our campus; interested students role-played the united nations in session.

for anyone who felt culturally estranged
 in georgetown,
 the southwestern-community artist series this year was a welcome relief; variety made it even more exciting.
 the ever-welcome victor alessandro directed the san antonio symphony and the audience
 through a program of outstanding music and performance;
 podolski and van aker,
 lutist and soprano duet,
 were rare and pleasing entertainment;
 richard syracuse
 returned to the campus
 as guest pianist;
 free and impressionistic sounds by the
 paul winter ensemble arrested even those who never cared much for jazz.

and when the first snowflake entered the atmosphere
the student body
unofficially
took the day off
and scattered
to fraternity row, the hills of the golf course, the park, the boodies
or the football field.
the phis challenged
the entire
female population,
and the alphas beat
the pikes
again.
the girls were permitted to wear their long pants
publicly,
and the dean wore her
boots.

the personal and alone
 moments
 when the spirit
 is allowed
 to dream, reflect,
 to search,
 to construct,
 create its own
 identity;
 a few moments apart
 to equilibrate the external world
 that tries
 to mold us.

oscar a. ullrich,
dean emeritus of the college of arts and sciences, was honored as
mr. homecoming.
here, he and his wife
are shown
with the caricature
originated for the occasion.

homecoming queen nominees were mary catherine reed, pam rozelle, sandra starke, noelle harlow, diane greer, janet bauman, dee chapman,
and emily griffin.
the queen was dee chapman.

a tradition
was revived
in the form of sing song, in which the sororities competed.
june pearson,
songleader for adpi,
happily
accepted the first place silver tray.
second place
went to the dz's,
and honorable mention
to the tri-delts.

a group of art, music,
and drama students,
under the direction
of drexil riley,
worked the entire year
adapting
george sessions perry's novel, hackberry cavalier, for the stage.
the result was a genuine and lively
image
of backwoods people.
it played
four performances to full and enthusiastic
audiences.

members of the special class
were:

ann alloway
joe aranki
shirley ballard
grace evans
bob haas
angus hendrick
george lindsey
susan mims
john murrell
joe mc corkle
jerry neel
van phillips
linda simmons
bill springer

spring became long walks and sunsets,
happy faces,
the boodies, low-water
and the san gabriel;
it was a time for
red bud trees,
the golf course,
spelunking;
a bonfire on the
riverbank
with steaks
and a cooler full.
minds became lazy and
classes became
cut;
professors
became irritable.

old south week
was bigger
and bangier
than ever
as the southern gentlemen
hosted their belles
to a week of special events
and parties.

back row: alloway, ramsey, ballard, murrell front row: mc corkle, simmons, springer (president), lindsey

the mask and wig
officers and
board of directors
produced
for the organization
a memorable season
of theatrical productions
for the year 1965-1966.

leading off the year
was a comedy,
"the skin of our teeth"
pictured here in leading roles
are sheila ramsey,
shirley ballard,
lynn presley,
john murrell and
john hamilton.

a first this year
in su's drama department was senior students
directing a one-act play in lieu of a recital.

"as long as the grass
grows green",
written and directed
by ray harlan,
starred angus hendrick,
john mansfield,
shirley ballard and
cindy galbreath.

darah meley
argues at
john murrell
in a scene from
"the new tenant"
directed by
ann alloway.

linda simmons
directed "the trumpet",
a comedy,
with john de luca,
rick bates,
cheryl horne, and
george lindsey.

above, dr. springer
is depicted
directing van phillips
and joe mc corkle in the united states
premiere of "wilberforce, m.p."
other members of the cast shown here are
john hamilton,
john murrell, bill springer,
and john mansfield.

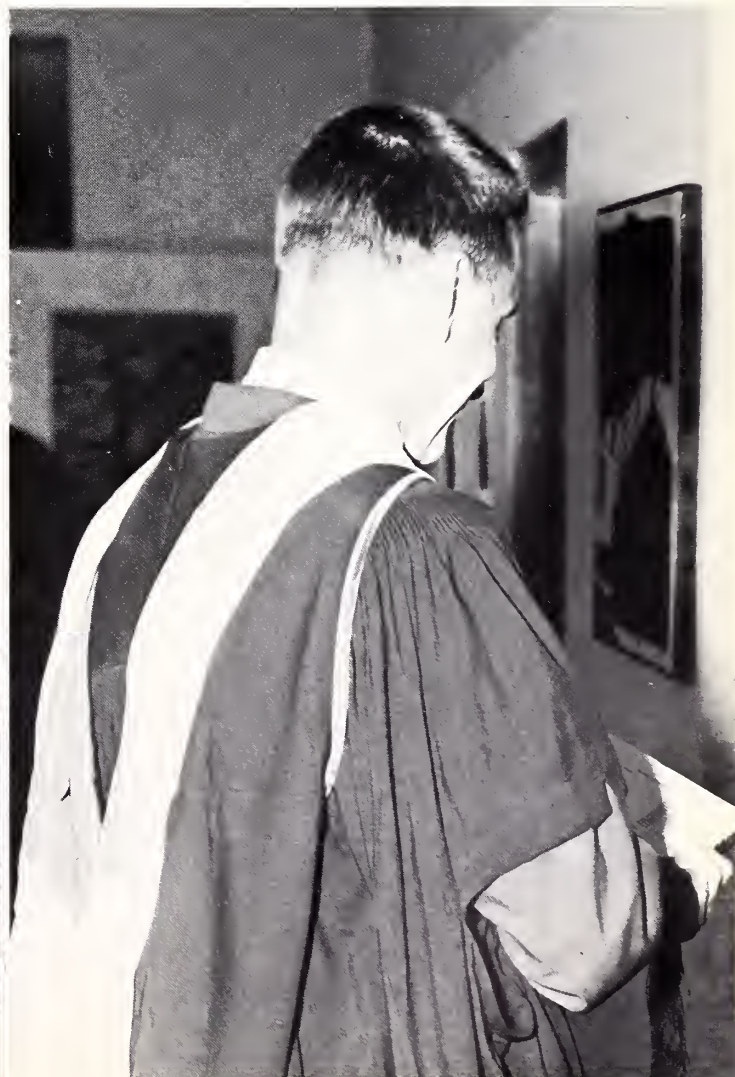

mask and wig's
"hackberry cavalier"
was presented
saturday before
graduation
in honor of
mrs. george sessions perry, wife of the late
author of the book,
hackberry cavalier,
and
edward clark,
united states ambassador
to australia,
who spoke at the commencement exercises
sunday.

graduation
 is the end of formal education for some,
 just another beginning
 for others;
 it was the last gathering of the senior class
 before it dissolved
 as a group
 and each went his separate path to marriage,
 graduate school,
 work, play,
 travel, the service.
 smiling, seniors
 attended their last required chapel.
